Griff Hall

Strategic Planning, Leadership Training & Coaching, Governance Consultant

Griff Hall has a background that is a rare combination of serving as a chief executive, extensive hands-on work within executive teams, teaching and mentoring grad school students, and working with grass roots leaders of troubled urban areas. He is an accomplished speaker, trainer, consultant, and coach in leadership, strategy, and governance. He is principal at Leadership Arts, LLC and has consulted with privately held businesses, non-profits and government departments to develop next level strategies and leadership capacities. His approach is based on practical application of proven research. As a coach, he combines a thorough knowledge of strategy and leadership with the skills to help individuals reach a personal vision.

While chief executive for three organizations at the national, regional and local levels, Griff led efforts ranging from turning around a system that was in shambles to leading a healthy organization in a high-growth initiative. During an eight-year tenure at Leadership Anne Arundel, Griff developed a national reputation for developing innovative and effective leadership programs for a wide spectrum of participants- from business executives to grass roots urban leaders. Having facilitated hundreds of leadership events and being involved with nearly 1,000 local leaders, Griff has one of the most extensive networks of business and community resources in the Maryland region.

Griff has presented workshops and delivered keynotes for many organizations including the American Society of Association Executives, American Psychological Association, Community Leadership Association, and United Way- his talks have been called both entertaining and provocative. He holds degrees from the University of Maryland and The Johns Hopkins University and is a TAB Certified Facilitator and Strategic Business Leadership Certified Coach.

For the past decade, Griff has taught competitive strategy in the MBA program at Johns Hopkins University's Carey School of Business. Hundreds of students from all over the world have benefited from his style of using live, interactive case studies. He is on the Advisory Board of the JHU MBA Fellows Program and has been a faculty member for student-run consulting projects.

Griff served as 2007 chair of the United Way Campaign for Anne Arundel County, sits on the Boards of Bello Machre, United Way, Vision Workshops, and is council chair at Asbury United Methodist Church. He recently started the Baltimore Neighborhood Leadership Academy, an all-volunteer organization that teaches leadership skills to grass roots urban leaders in Baltimore City.
